

The Long Island Collaborative Divorce Professionals

The LICDP has been busy creating resources for anyone going through a separation or divorce to both educate and empower. These resources provide information on common themes that are addressed during a separation.

However, we know that separations and divorces come in all different shapes and sizes; we want to hear your story.

We are here to help.

Your Family Deserves The Best.
Your Family Deserves Collaborative.

Click Here to Request a Free Consultation

Click Here to Visit our Website for Resources

Retirement: Terms to Know

Dealing with money is stressful, even without the added stress of a divorce. If you are unfamiliar with the financial jargon used during your process, it can be even more overwhelming.

The LICDP's very own Donna LaScala, RFC, CDFA, crafted an article that explains the key terms to know when discussing retirement assets so you can feel prepared to handle the financial aspect of divorce.

CLICK HERE TO READ "NOT ALL RETIREMENT ASSETS ARE CREATED EQUAL"

Starting Fresh: Relocation After Separation

When a couple decides to get divorced, it usually involves the physical separating of the pair. In some cases, only one party needs to relocate, and in other instances both parties need to find a new place to live. Whatever the case is, relocating has financial, emotional, social, and physical implications for all parties involved.

Check out this article written by Catherine Canadé, Esq. and Bob Raymond, PhD. that outlines some things to consider when relocation is addressed and how the Collaborative process helps you navigate this unavoidable part of divorce.

CLICK HERE TO READ "RELOCATION AFTER SEPARATION OR DIVORCE: THINGS TO CONSIDER"

LICDP | 844-542-3700 |
admin@vazlaw.com | <https://www.licdp.com/>

