

Moving Forward While Staying Put

Our team is here for you.

Our professionals have been working together to provide the latest information on how they can best assist you and your family at this point in time.

Concerns about health, welfare and finances are enough to rock any relationship during the best of times – it's no wonder that couples who have been experiencing difficulties are having a hard time right now.

With the traditional court system essentially being closed, getting married or divorced during this crisis can seem like a daunting task- but it doesn't need to be so overwhelming.

Click the link below to learn how our team of professionals can help you and your family start your journey forward, in a way that works for you:

Divorce During COVID-19: Why the Collaborative Model Makes Sense

Co-Parenting During COVID-19 and Beyond

The COVID-19 pandemic has placed additional stressors on families, especially those already experiencing interpersonal hardships. These stressors can be even more pronounced when children are involved.

For parents who are co-parenting children, the COVID-19 crisis has highlighted particularly the very valuable and unique benefits of the Collaborative Divorce model.

Click the link below to read about the benefits of Collaborative for Co-Parents, written by LICDP's Amy Reinstein-Augenstein, Esq., LCSW:

The Benefits of the Collaborative Divorce Process for Co-Parenting During COVID-19 & Beyond

Register Now- Join us for our first LICDP Webinar!

Our professionals will be answering some frequently asked questions about the Collaborative Model, as well as taking questions from attendees.

When: Tuesday, April 28th from 11:00AM-11:30AM

Where: Zoom Meeting ID 943 8127 5352

Register Here!

Can't make it at that time? That's okay!
Register at the link above and we will email you the presentation.

*Your family deserves the best.
Your family deserves Collaborative.*

Long Island Collaborative Divorce Professionals
| Visit Our Website

